Where Future School Board Leaders Learn To Lead

Communities need strong leadership. So do schools. When you are an effective school board leader, you play a key role in making policy, ensuring that students grow and graduate, and making a positive difference in everyone's life – even your own.

But even 'born leaders' need a place to develop if they wish to achieve the most from their board experience. And that is where IASB can help. Our LeaderShop Academy has training programs for the new board member and veteran alike. Topics range from basic roles and responsibilities to leadership for better schools. Become the leader you were destined to be: call 217/528-9688, ext. 1103, or visit www.iasb.com for more information.
